NEW BG ATHLETIC FACILITY PROGRESSING

First Phase Completed During Summer

The first phase of a plan to bring to Bowling Green State University a new and more geographically concentrated athletic and recreational area was completed in the summer of 1963.

The development, located to the east of campus just off Yount Road, is pictured below in an artist's conception of the finished project.

Completed in the summer were:

1. Twelve new tennis courts, six with cement playing surface and six with a simulated grass finish. The BGSU team will play here in 1964.
2. Two new varsity baseball diamonds which may be ready for varsity use by the spring of 1964. The fields are located just north of Stadium Road.

3. A watering system for a new football stadium was installed.

There are still plans for completion of a nine-hole golf course. Nine greens have been planted and the fairways have been seeded for grass.

A new football stadium, with seating capacity upwards of 30,000, is also planned. Four football practice fields, a lacrosse and soccer area and a new outdoor track facility are in the planning stage.

The new facility is another step in BG's attempt to provide educational facilities to benefit the university, its students and the community.

TODAY'S GAME

NINETEEN SENIORS WIND UP CAREERS . . .

Today's game will be the collegiate finale for 19 seniors. These members of the Class of '64 have had an outstanding football career at Bowling Green State University. They were undefeated during a 4-game freshman season. As sophomores, they played a big role in helping the Falcons grab the 1961 Mid-American Conference crown and participated in the Mercy Bowl in which over $200,000 was raised to aid the survivors of the California Poly team crash at the Toledo airport.

Then last season they were again prominent in the second straight MAC crown, only the third time that one team had won two straight championships. Under the co-captaincy of Bill Violet and John Doyle, the 1963 squad remained in the thick of the MAC race until last week when Ohio University administered the worst defeat of their college careers. Over-all, they have been an important part of a 22-4-1 record going into today's game.

So today we are happy to salute the football team members of the Class of '64. They are ends—Wayne Smith, Fred Phillis, John Doyle and Gary Whittaker; tackles—Larry Cook and Steve Huzicko; guards—Ken Burke, Jay Dorsey, Mike Jinks, Fred Koester, and Bill Violet; centers—Ed Bettridge, Ron Eaton and Bill Ruter; backs—Howard Ankney, Barry Weaver, Earl Whiteside, John Haschak and Bill Regnier.

While the Falcons will have to forget the MAC championship honors in their try for an unprecedented three-in-a-row, a victory over Xavier will give them the honor of being the only team in the MAC that won all its non-conference games.

In contrast to last year when the MAC teams had a 19-8 over-all record, this has been a tough year for the MAC in non-league tilts. In 21 games to date, the seven teams combined have won only eight games and BG has three of those. Kent is the only other team close to the Falcons in this column with a win over Louisville and a tie with Xavier. League-leading Ohio University has defeated only Dayton while losing to Buffalo, Delaware and Xavier. Miami lost to Xavier, Northwestern and tied Dayton. Marshall lost to Morehead and Louisville and picked up wins over Buffalo and Kentucky State. Toledo has a win over Southern Illinois. MAC teams will be out to improve this today with four non-league games and the big contest at Marshall with Ohio will settle the 1963 MAC championship.

THE BOWLING GREEN SCHEDULE

Sept. 21	Detroit	27-14

Nov. 16	at Ohio University	0-16
Nov. 23	Xavier

XAVIER RETURNS TO FALCON SCHEDULE . . .

Today's game is the fifth gridiron meeting of Bowling Green and Xavier. The Falcons lead in the series 3-1, winning 16-0 in 1957 in a hard fought contest at the Xavier Stadium.

Coached by Miami graduate Eddie Biles, the Musketeers bring a 5-3-1 record into University Stadium. In his second year at the Xavier helm, Biles' club ran up a 6-4 record last year. This will be the fourth Mid-American Conference foe for the Musketeers. They own a 21-12 victory over neighboring Miami and also dominated a 20-0 runfest over Ohio University. Kent State battled the Queen City eleven to a 7-7 deadlock.

There are two other common foes in the two teams' record. The Musketeers edged Dayton, 15-14, and then dropped a 6-0 decision to Detroit last weekend. BG had wins over both these teams.

Freshman Coach Dick Young, who has scouted the Cincinnati club this season, calls the Musketeers one of the best teams that the Falcons will face. Working from an unbalanced pro offense, the Musketeers have come along well in late season. Until Detroit tallied the winning touchdown in last week's game, Biles' squad had gone 16 quarters without giving up a score.

Walt Mainer, former standout at Purcell High in Cincinnati, has developed rapidly as a sophomore halfback. He has run up 733 yards in 109 carries to become the second highest ground gainer at Xavier, a most auspicious start for a first-year man.

Biles has been depending on Joe Wyzkoski at quarterback since the Cincinnati game but the Xavier attack hasn't called for the passing game to be prominent. Walt Bryniarski, however, has been a good running quarterback since he has rushed for 197 yards while fullback Jim Korb is next in line with 151 yards. Roger Thesing, also a Purcell product, had to miss the Detroit game because of a kidney injury but might be ready for today's game.

Up front the Musketeers have really showed well. Fred Rehman not only leads the pass receivers with 10 catches for 172 yards but has been a standout on defense. Center Ken Lehmann, and tackle Jim Higgins, also a Purcell product, have been outstanding in the middle of the Muskie line.

Mike Bonanno, a Lima Central Catholic protege, has also developed rapidly, taking over a guard job as a sophomore. Terry Brown, a Toledo St. Francis standout, has also moved into the picture at halfback.

Is the '64 Buick Wildcat really wild?

...the wildest!

Wish we could show you a picture of the '64 Buick Wildcat instead of just "Wildcat people". But that would spoil the surprise in store for you on October 4th. That's when the new Wildcat (and all the other beautiful '64 Buicks) go on display at your local Buick dealer's. Until then, a few tidbits to whet your appetite: three new Wildcat V-8 engines ranging up to 360 hp. Three new transmissions, including a new Super Turbine torque converter automatic with lots more thrust on lots less gas. Four new models: 4-door hardtop; 2-door sport coupe; 4-door sedan; convertible. Above all, they're Buicks!

BUICK MOTOR DIVISION

WINTER SPORTS DUE FOR REBOUND

Bowling Green's wrestling and swimming teams, saddled with their poorest records in a decade last year, could be on the rebound in 1963-64.

Both Coach Bruce Bellard's wrestlers and Coach Tom Stubbs' swimmers should improve this season thanks to the rise of some strong sophomore talent and the return of a solid nucleus of seasoned veterans.

Stubbs, a highly-successful coach at Battle Creek (Mich.) Central before returning to his alma mater, inherits a winning tradition from retired Coach Sam Cooper.

Bowling Green won five straight Mid-American Conference crowns under Cooper between 1956 and 1960 as the coach compiled a 151-44 mark in 16 seasons.

Stubbs has the nucleus of returning veterans, including co-captains Mike Zinn and Rick Pixley, and butterfly artist Marty Schenk.

"I've never had a losing season, and I don't intend to have one now. We think we can improve last year's record and I'm sure we will," Stubbs says optimistically.

Bowling Green had a 9-10 dual meet season last year and finished fourth in the conference. With any breaks in 1963-64, the Falcons seem certain to rise above that showing.

Tom Stubbs, at left, follows a tradition of winning swimming teams at Bowling Green as he takes over in his first season as head coach. Bruce Bellard, right, has a winning wrestling tradition of his own—54 wins, 36 losses, six draws in ten seasons.

Stubbs likes the performances of senior Bob Leuten and backstroke Dan Yost as well as the three returning stalwarts. Mike Symons is a hard worker in the distances, where he holds forth with John Lindahl. Dan Weller and Paul Schrieber, both strong performers, could also loom large in Stubbs' plans this season.

With plenty of strength in the breaststroke, backstroke and distance events, Stubbs feels he needs only more power in the freestyle sprints to produce a fine BeeGee team.

Bellard, who went 4-4-2 last year in a rebuilding campaign, has eight lettermen back in a fight with a chorus of high-class sophomores for starting jobs.

Returning standouts like Dick Reinhardt, Joe Barnard, Bill Regnier, Ray Steeley, Dave Kile and Don Marich will add their talents to the lineup, but may be hard-pressed to win starting jobs.

Bellard feels he has a pair of top sophs in 130-pounder Frank Oliveri and 167-pounder Dennis Palmer. Both went through last year's frosh campaign unbeaten after perfect records during fine high school careers. Footballer Mel Foels could take over at heavyweight after missing last season with a bad knee.

"This should be a good season. We know we are improved and barring any unforeseen developments we should be a contender for the Mid-American championship," Bellard says.

Bellard's teams have compiled a 54-36-6 mark in his ten seasons as coach and have won conference crowns with unbeaten records in 1959 and 1960.

Although BeeGee will show the most power at the lighter weights, over-all team balance and strength could be the main reason if BG expects success this season.

Band Director Roy J. Weger

TODAY'S BAND SHOW PACKS BIG EXPLOSIVES

In an effort to keep pace with the tempo of the times, the Bowling Green State University band, under the direction of Roy J. Weger with Richard Ecker as assistant director, today presents a halftime show geared to the atomic age.

The word atomic has become a by-word. We have atomic bombs, atomic power, atomic missiles and, after overeating, atomic ache. We have learned that all matter is made of atoms—but Atoms aren't much without Eves.

- To the tune of "March of the Martians" the Bowling Green band forms the body of Atom, who in the beginning walked alone. There was time to think and reflect, as the band does in playing, "I've Got You Under My Skin."

- From one of Atom's ribs, the story goes, Eve was made. They call that splitting the Atom. As the band outlines the forms of both Atom and Eve, they play "Exactly Like You."

- Atom and Eve seemed like a natural combination of elements until one day they had a quarrel and Atom dropped Eve, thus being guilty of Atomic fallout or Evesdropping. So, with time on his hands, a free Atom decided to pick up his fission pole and go nuclear fission as the band outlines a fishing pole to the melody of "Stormy Weather."

- Meanwhile, back at the garden, Eve was plotting to recapture her free Atom. When he returned from his fission trip, Eve was up and at 'em. The band now forms a queen-sized atomizer and plays "Lover" as Eve sprays Atom through the heart with charming enchantment.

- Having a weakness for these charms, Atom realized that Eve was the only one and that he was a prisoner of love. The band symbolizes Atom's plight as it forms a ball and chain and plays "Prisoner's Song."

- It didn't take Atom long to realize, curse the luck, that he was behind the eight-ball as well as shackled to the ball and chain. The band pictures the predicament as it forms an eight ball.

And so it was that Eve gave our modern-day scientists a first inclination of how to capture the Atom.

To conclude today's show, the Falcon Band forms a BLOCK B G and plays Forward Falcons.

STATE ISSUE No. 1: WHAT IT MEANS TO OHIO

- $175 million to Ohio's six state-assisted college and universities, three municipal universities and two community colleges. Additional revenues are needed to finance construction of new classroom, laboratory and administrative facilities.
- $35 million to aid distressed school districts. Last fall, Ohio public schools were lacking 86 buildings and 57 major additions when school opened. The need is still growing.
- $25 million for construction, parks and recreation. Natural resources vital to both industry and private citizens must be developed and put to work if Ohio is to prosper.
- $15 million for state facilities, including research and development. In order to lay a firm groundwork for business and private citizens, preliminary steps must be taken now. Helping create an atmosphere of economic, educational and social harmony is an integral part of the job.
- No new taxes are needed to support State Issue No. 1. A one-cent tax on each pack of cigarettes has been in effect since 1955 and continues to yield sufficient funds to support the program.

LOOK BACK AT THE MAC—A WILD YEAR

The year 1963 will go down in Mid-American Conference football annals as the year Marshall shocked the pants off everybody, the year Bowling Green earned the reputation as the "Comeback Kids" and the year Ohio University and Miami had no luck outside the conference but rolled merrily along within it.

It was the wildest year of MAC football in years—and it's not over yet. All eyes are on Huntington, W. Va. today, where Marshall and Ohio are staging a showdown for the crown. A Marshall victory means a title tie between the Big Green and Miami while a Bobcat victory would take the laurels outright.

The year started off innocently enough and then—wham! Marshall tied Miami 14-14 and the race was on. Toledo was the next Big Green victim but then the Rockets turned in a surprising form reversal and dumped Ohio University, 18-17.

When Bowling Green lost to Miami, Marshall was on top of the conference for the first time in six years.

Things just got more complicated when Ohio knocked off Miami and threw the whole race into a fight to the finish.

At Bowling Green, Coach Doyt Perry's team went to the lockers trailing at halftime five times in nine games and came out to overcome deficits of two touchdowns or more to win three times. In nine games, the Falcons let the opposition score first seven times and came back to win five.

It was a year for untried quarterbacks, too, with Howie Lee Miller starring at Marshall, Wes Danyo at Ohio, Troy Allen at Western Michigan, Jerry Ward at Bowling Green, and Dan Simrell at Toledo.

It was a year for speedy backs with Jack Mahone of Marshall, who never played in high school, leading the rushing, and Jay Cunningham of Bowling Green scoring and punt returns.

For the first time in many seasons, MAC teams had little success outside the conference. Up to Nov. 23, the league was 8-12-2 against outside foes with only Bowling Green (3-0-0), Marshall (2-2-0) and Kent State (1-0-1) having better than .500 marks.

But most of all, 1963 was a year for the fans. Bowling Green smashed its attendance record twice, Marshall drew record crowds, the Ohio-Miami clash drew 16,000 and Toledo packed the house for opening games.

All in all, it won't be a year soon forgotten by players, coaches or fans.

FALCONS 32nd AMONG MAJOR COLLEGE POWERS

Up five places from last year, Bowling Green State University ranked 32nd among the all-time college gridiron powers at the beginning of the 1963 season.

With a 7-1-1 season last year and a second straight Mid-American Conference championship, the Falcons boosted their record to 197-112-42 and a .619 percentage.

The 1962 season sent Bowling Green past perennial powers like Syracuse, Colorado, Texas A & M and Nebraska in the rankings. Two of the teams Bowling Green will meet this year—Xavier and Detroit—rank just below the Falcons while Miami of Ohio rates 20th.

Western Michigan is the only other team to make the select group, ranking 39th with a .609 percentage.

National leaders in other statistical departments include:

Most seasons: Princeton, 93.

Most games: Penn, 849.

Most wins: Yale, 588.

Most losses: Penn, 262.

Most ties: California, 53.

Best percentage: Notre Dame, .772.

The Federation Movement

A New Era for American Sports!

by OLIVER E. KUECHLE

Sports Editor

The Milwaukee Journal

A new concept in the conduct and administration of amateur athletics in this country has taken deep root. It is evolutionary. It is sound. It is an inevitable development as participation in our ever-expanding athletic programs grow.

It is known as the federation movement.

At the moment, it embraces four sports: track and field, basketball, gymnastics and baseball. In time, it will undoubtedly embrace others.

Each field has its own federation. In each, which is the evolutionary part of the concept, the educational community at last has its proper representation through the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, the National Junior College Athletic Association and other representative agencies. Conservatively, these three organizations, with other federation members, represent more than 85% of the amateur interests in the United States.

The question has been asked: Why new federations? Why? Since kerosene lamps also provided light, why electric lights?

The answer to the federation movement is simple. Those who are the primary contributors to amateur athletics, the schools, believe—nay, now insist—that they have the right to share in the responsibility of establishing policy directly affecting their own programs. They have not had such right in the past. They have merely tagged along. It is the basic philosophy among educational institutions that educators and administrators alone determine the course of their athletic programs within the framework of the over-all educational concept. There can be no retreat from this—no further indifference either.

The federation movement allows all nationally recognized organizations to have voice and vote in establishing basic policy in each sport. It provides, further, that no two organizations within a federation can ever gain control.

Each federation is autonomous. Each operates independently. A few national organizations belong to all four federations. Others belong only to the federation which directly concerns their sport.

The movement is not limited to educational institutions. It has a place for all. Even in these beginnings, most major amateur sports organizations have joined as partners. The one strident dissenter has been the Amateur Athletic Union. It has steadfastly declined all invitations to join.

Through federation programs, the country cannot help but benefit. There will be improved development opportunities, increased competition, enlightened administration. We as a nation cannot help but have stronger representation in international and Olympic competitions.

Here is a brief look at the individual federations:

United States Track and Field Federation (USTFF). It was organized July 24, 1962, and consists of 10 national organizations. In less than a year it has sponsored three national championship meets, a national track clinic and has embarked on an extensive development program for all age groups. It is organized in more than 40 states, with each state conducting its own program of development and competition. The Gulf Coast Federation (Texas) conducted a cross-country meet, for instance, which drew 475 runners and the Michigan Federation held an indoor track meet which drew 625 boys and girls. Outspoken in praise of the USTFF has been Executive Secretary Cliff Fagan of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations: "We (high schools) have always had the biggest potential but, until the federation movement, we have never fully realized our potential."

Basketball Federation of the United States (BFUSA). The 10-member federation, organized July 1, 1962, represents almost all of the organized amateur basketball played in the United States. It has been recognized by the international governing body and will assume independent international sanctioning privileges beginning January 1, 1964. It has a definite program to improve this country's image internationally through better representation in world games and increased international competition. Several countries have already indicated new interest to send their teams to this country in the season just ahead.

United States Gymnastic Federation (USGF). The federation, organized December 9, 1962, has already become the dominant force in gymnastics in this country. A national championship was held in June. Clinics have brought expert gymnastic instructions to coaches and competitors. The federation has embarked upon an intensified national program to popularize gymnastics, particularly among school-age boys and girls.

United States Baseball Federation (USBF). The federation has a basic two-fold program: (1) to help amateur baseball in whatever way it can and (2) to provide the United States with an organization to promote baseball internationally. Under the auspices of the state department, the USBF last summer provided a group of collegiate baseball coaches and players to conduct instructional clinics in Central America.

The new school year brings great new opportunities to the entire federation movement.

ALMA MATER

Alma Mater hear us,
As we praise thy name
Make us worthy sons and daughters
Adding to thy fame.

Time will treat you kindly
Years from now you'll be
Ever dearer in our hearts,
Our University.

From your halls of ivy
To the campus scene,
Chimes ring out with gladness
For our dear Bowling Green.

When all is just a mem'ry
Of the by-gone days,
Hear our hymn dear Alma Mater
As thy name we praise.

MEET THE FALCONS

1. LYNN ROBINSON (42) Fullback from Bryan, Junior. Came through in the clutch with a fine performance against Marshall two weeks ago to tab himself as one of BG's rapidly-developing stars. A 200-pounder who can block as well as run, he scored a TD in the 1962 game against the Big Green. Topped the freshman team in scoring two years ago with 52 points when the team went unbeaten. While he starred on the gridiron for Bryan High, he found time enough to set a school shot put record which still stands. An industrial arts major who likes to water ski in his spare time, he plans to teach and coach.

2. GARY WHITAKER (80) End from Wapakoneta, Senior. Has two of the finest hands on the team and ranks well up the list among Falcon pass receivers this fall. Has grabbed four aerals for 50 yards, having his best day against Dayton when he caught two for 26 yards. Has been strong on defense as well as offense in appearances in every BG game this fall. Lettered in 1961 but missed last year with injuries. Captain of 1959 Redskin team as he capped a three-letter career with all-league, all-area and all-state recognition. Married and a physical education major, he plans to teach and coach.

3. BILL RUITER (50) Center from Kettering, Senior. A 1962 letterman who has won himself a regular job this season after spending last year as a specialist for punt and extra point snaps. Started against Kent State and has seen plenty of duty on offense all season long. Won all-league and all-Ohio honors at Kettering Fairmont where his prep coach was Pete Ankney, now head coach of the Dayton Flyers. Although just 185-pounds, he has shown scrap and ability to handle much bigger foes. A speech major who hopes to teach and coach, Bill is married and has one child.

4. TONY FIRE (72) Tackle from Struthers, Sophomore. One of the nicest surprises of the season for Coach Doyt Perry, this 235-pounder has come on like gangbusters to take over the starting defensive tackle job. Has been a solid performer all season, but was particularly impressive in BG's victories over Kent State and Marshall. Has fine speed and likes it rough and may be one of the best in BG history before he's finished. Captained 1961 Struthers team and won all-league honors as the most outstanding lineman. A history major, he plans to teach and coach.

5. EARL WHITESIDE (27) Halfback from Hamilton, Senior. "Speedo" saved the day against Marshall when he came from nowhere in the final quarter to bat a sure TD pass away from end Jim Cure. Now in his second season as a performer in the BG secondary, Earl came to BG after winning all-league and all-Ohio honors at Hamilton Garfield where he was also a trackman and baseball player. Majors in physical education and wants to teach and coach.
